

GREENAVATIONS
"PHYSICS TO FINANCE"

Verde at Howard Square Apartments LEED PLATINUM APARTMENTS

Verde at Howard Square Apartments is the first LEED Platinum apartment building in the State of Maryland. For Atapco, going Platinum was an easy choice with the use of significant Howard County tax credits for solar energy and LEED Platinum certification; the building nearly paid for itself. The structure can produce so much energy that during high producing months, Verde at Howard Square Apartments can actually sell some of their energy back to the grid.

How is that for return-on-investment?

Word from Atapco Properties is that the apartments are highly sought after and are filling up quickly. For Howard County residents, energy efficient is a huge draw.

Howard Square is a 47 acre mixed-use development located in Howard County, Maryland. The 296 unit apartment complex is the first component completed in the development, with other LEED certified structures to come.

The building also generates over 15% of the total power consumed through solar panels located on the building's garage, pictured here.

SOLAR ARRAY BY GREENAVATIONS

UNDERNEATH THE SOLAR ARRAY

AERIAL PICTURE OF SOLAR ARRAY